Having lived in Beloit for 50 years, I know the entire area that the rail line goes through. There is very little tourism, hiking or fishing in the whole 278 mile route. Also, nowadays there are few traditional farmers that can't be divided up. Most farmers lease a field here and there, and don't rely on huge undivided fields. The economic need is so great that no environmental or farmer's concerns are worth delaying this project for even a day, much less denying the project.

NOTE: When an individual chooses to submit an Environmental Comment or some Other Submissions, his or her personal contact information is considered public information and is shared within and outside of STB without additional authorization.
