My comment is I don't have a problem with the increase in traffic in Plainfield, the problem is that all trains are at-grade. I live on the west side of the train tracks. There is no medical facilities and no emergency services on my side of the tracks. I would not be able to get across to the other side and emergency vehicles etc would not be able to get to me. That is my biggest concern. If they did a split-grade on several of the crossings I wouldn't have a problem with the amount of increase in traffic going through Plainfield so much. Um, but the answer is not to move the emergency vehicles to the west side of the tracks, because that's not going to help when the hospital is involved. You can't get across the tracks in an ambulance any easier than a car. Thank you. Bye.
