Mr. Holan -

I don't have any hard copies of mapping to pass out. But you can find detailed mapping of the proposed rail line on the Surface Transportation Board's project website. Here is a link to the home page of our project website:

<http://www.greatlakesbasinraileis.com/index.html>

Click on the "Maps" button in the left-hand column and that will take you to some mapping resources including detailed mapping (i.e., the KMZ file in the second bullet down) using a free software program called Google Earth. The Maps page includes instructions on how to download the software, if needed. You'll be able to zoom into the proposed rail line and look at things in great detail. Later today we will adding new maps to this page that won't require the use of Google Earth.

Thanks,

Dave

Subject: rail line

Hi Dave,

I looked over the Great lakes Basin website and saw the map included on the site of the proposed rail line. Is there a more detailed map of the sections where it runs along the Winnebago County border and enters into Winnebago County? If there is, can you send that to me either via email or USPS to the address below. We have a couple of Forest Preserves in that area as well as some unique land forms and a creek of high enough quality that the state has considered stocking trout into it. A map will aid us in determining if there are any environmental concerns to be included in the EIS.

Thank you in advance.
