Transcript:

I just saw that the CN is going around the STB's decision to delay the ruling and they are going to the District Court of Appeals. This is in the Chicago Tribune September 19th, 2008. I think this really shows you how they're just kinda trying to push this through before anybody could possibly evaluate it and how it's such a bad thing for Will County. Obviously, if they thought it was a good thing, they would, you know, let the legal process out play. So I hope you take this into consideration how they're trying to railroad this through and go around your decision. Thank you. Have a good day.
