I am writing as a concerned citizen and landowner to let you know that I strongly support the 6 extensions rule. I think it's too many, but it is the lesser of two evils if the alternative is unlimited extensions! There are plenty of existing trails, especially in my area, and not every landowner embraces them. You need to be fair to all parties and it often seems that adjacent landowners and farmers get the short end of the stick. We purchased our adjacent railroad right-of-way years ago and we count our blessings every day that we don't have a bike trail running through our land!
