Comments: Having over 30 years experience working on drainage in Porter Co.

I feel that a railroad would severely effect drainage in Porter Co.

A storm water drainage fee was recently imposed in Porter Co. that Costs the average homeowner $120; larger land owners will pay more.

This fee is due to MS4 guidelines mandated by I.D.E.M.

The abandoned rail roads that already run through Porter Co. are a major impediment to proper drainage. The active lines are neglected and are often plugged with debris. Not only will this proposed rail line effect surface drainage, it may destroy the underground tibe system that many landowners rely on for drainage.
