My comment is, it just seems practical for surface transportation, like the reason that we built the 294 to move traffic around the city, without having to go into the city and Highway 355 and 80, all those bypasses to really lighten the load, it just makes sense to do the same thing with railroads and even though some towns would have more rail traffic, they wouldn't have the congestion and the stopped trains that the inner circle has because there's such a large amount of track for them to cover, so even if they had more trains in a day, they wouldn't have trains stopped and blocking the crossings like we have had. And so I would vote definitely for that purchase to go through for CNN purchasing the EJ&E Railroad. Thank you
