I'd like to make a comment about the uh acquisition of the Canadian National Railway. Um I live very close to several of the areas where the trains are already very, very bad. They stand between me and my hospital and if the train traffic increases it could be very dangerous to my family. About a month ago, I rushed my husband to Edward Hospital when he gashed his leg and we were held up by a freight train. Now in that case it was not a life or death situation, but all I could think of was if this was a heart attack or something urgent and there was a ten minute train, you know, this is definitely going to impact safety and health and the environment and the noise pollution and the opportunity for access for emergency vehicles. This will have a profound affect on my family's health and welfare and it can not go through. Thank you.
