I think that this situation is very interesting. If the freight trains are allowed to go through then many truck drivers will lose their jobs, traffic will be increased, and more people will be unhappy. But if trains aren't allowed to go through their will be more air pollution, and it could also cause more traffic on highways. In conclusion I think that people need to be able to have a say in this decision. Maybe there should be a voting process, but there are also many good things that come with it.
