I'm wondering if you might be able to give me some kind of information on the impact that the Canadian National with their increased traffic and how that will impact the proposed STAR Line Commuter Rail Service. Last night there was a major freight train accident in California that left up to 20 people dead, if not more, and I'm wondering with the toxic chemicals and the toxic things that they, that the Canadian Rail would be taking through the area, I don't believe that it could coexist with the STAR Line. So I believe that would take the STAR Line completely off the table, which is, that's an economic issue, but it's a bad economic issue, but I'm wondering about the environmental impact on if they were to try to do something like that and try to coexist with the STAR Line Commuter Service and what kind of impact that could have, not just the crash alone, but if there was a toxic spill or something in a crash like that and how many people could be killed and entire populations, I don't know, and I would like to know what the environmental impact study has on that subject. My home phone number is 815-464-1431. And I do appreciate it if you can get back to me on this issue. It is September the 13th. Thank you very much
