Ms. Glidden:

I last spoke with Brian Grennell at the Michigan State Historic Preservation Office on April 15th, shortly after he had received our supplemental package with photos of all structures along the line that are considered to be 50 years old or older. Most of that conversation dealt with the issue of the map that depicted the location of the structures in question. Mr. Grennell remarked at the time that our photos and the Environmental & Historic Report was quite comprehensive, but he also remarked that his office had not yet made any determinations regarding any of the structures. Mr. Grennell asked whether or not we intended to remove the bridges. I confirmed that we have no such plans. I have not heard anything from him since the 15th. As may bear on your inquiry, Mr. Grennell has not inquired about any particular structure on the line, and has not, since April 15, contacted us about any structures. While I don't want to read too much into this, the SHPO's lack of contact with us since April 15 may reflect a lack of interest in the line's structures, or it may simply signify that it has not yet completed its Section 106 analysis.
