Hey David,

Just left you a VM. I was checking in on the Great Lake River Basin Rail Line. My boss is headed back to the District tomorrow and wanted me to see if there have been any updates on the project (new anticipated timeline, next steps, etc.). The issue has been spiking again (perhaps people are getting caught up on their reading ;))

It looks to me that things are about the same – public scoping meetings have wrapped up but comment period doesn't close till June 15. Do you have a timeline for when you anticipate GLBT officially filing their application with STB?

Thanks in advance for your help and patience fielding what I am sure are endless inquiries and letters.
