The Great Lakes Basin project is much like the old cartoon where the man says "I will gladly pay you tomorrow for a hamburger today." GLBT has, like that man, no ability to pay for the project they want to build. Ability to pay is fundamental to proving public necessity. Based on the inability of GLBT to produce a solid balance sheet, proof of financing being in place, proof of any Class One Railroad being willing to use their line, any documentation to support their building and traffic estimates, and no proof of anything verifiable, this project must be denied as not meeting public necessity. Please immediately issue a no build ruling.
